The state of California, including the city of Los Angeles, is facing a mental health crisis of epic proportions. This public safety issue exists both in the shadows, unseen inside the homes within our community, and also extends quite visibly onto our local streets.

The Studio City Neighborhood Council asks our city and state officials to immediately consider updated measures, provide detailed reports, seek community input and enact laws taking emergency action to improve the current situation.

As we begin 2019, we strongly advise that the issue of mental health becomes a top agenda item for lawmakers. Furthermore, the trifecta of Prop. 57, AB109 and Prop. 47 – which adversely changed our state's approach to crime, punishment, drug and mental health care – needs a careful examination and reform.
